South-Carolina GAZETTE.

From THURSDAY July 17th, to THURSDAY July 24th, 1755.

LONDON, May 13.

SATURDAY the regiment of Old-Buffs arrived at Croydon in Surry, and are soon to embark on board some of his majesty's ships.

Last friday a command of the royal regiment of artillery embarked at Woolwich for Nova-Scotia.

His excellency the marquis of Hartington, lord lieutenant of Ireland, arrived at Dublin on monday the 5th instant.

John Banks, Esq; of Kingston-hall in Dorsetshire, has promised a reward of five guineas to every able-bodied seaman that shall voluntarily enter on board one of his majesty's sloops of war now lying off Poole harbour, over and above the reward offered by public proclamation.

Letter from Portsmouth, dated May 12.

"On saturday morning admiral Holbourn hoisted his blue flag at the mizen on board the Grafton at Spithead, and fell down to St. Helen's that day, where he changed his flag to the Terrible. The same day the Gibraltar sail'd on a cruise. Arrived at Spithead the Medway, Arundel, and Blandford.—On sunday afternoon admiral Holbourn proceeded to sea with the following ships under his command, viz. Terrible, capt. Wm. Holbourn; Grafton, capt. Holmes; Yarmouth, capt. Harry Norris; Chichester, capt. John Brett; Edinburgh, capt. Stanhope; Augusta, capt. Willet; and the Arundel, capt. Hankerson. About 4 in the afternoon I saw them all weigh anchor at St. Helen's, and sail for the coast of Sussex, where they cast anchor again; and just now I saw them all under full sail, weathering St. Helen's point. 'Tis not known where they are going, but supposed to join Boscawen and Mostyn. The same day sail'd out of the harbour to Spithead, his majesty's ship Ambuscade (taken from the French in the late war) bound to Gibraltar, and the Monmouth, Ipswich, and Warwick men of war remain in the Sound for orders.

We hear, that there are above 30 ships of the line at Chatham, not yet put in commission.

This morning came advice, by the Montford, capt. Vincent, arrived off Dover from Bengal, that commodore Watson was arrived at Bombay with all the men of war and transports, and had sent a 20-gun ship to Madrass to inform them of his arrival.

This ship also brings an account, that a truce had been agreed on between the French and the English for 3 months, which was to expire in February last; that governor Saunderson was coming home; that M. Duplein was embarked on his way home; and that a hurricane happened at Bengal in December last, in which 11 Dutch ships were drove ashore, and two of them lost.

We hear, that a scheme is on foot, for providing for the families of seamen whilst in the service of the royal navy, by permitting the wife, or children (if any) of every seaman to receive one month's pay in 3 of their wages; and also, that upon laying up any ship or ships, the wages due upon such ship or ships be paid to the seamen or their assigns forthwith; and all prizes and short-allowance money to be paid to every seaman within 6 months after his discharge. It is to be hoped so good a design will meet with the utmost furtherance.

How far the account mentioned in yesterday's papers may be depended upon, of the French fleet being all-mann'd, is submitted to the judgment of the public: All the sailors of that kingdom are the king's, and therefore when a merchant has occasion for seamen, he applies to his majesty's officers, from whom he receives an account of their names, ages, and description of their persons, to which officers he re-delivers or accounts for absentees, on the return of the ship. By this method his majesty is sure of a supply for his navy at a very short warning.

Letter from Portsmouth, dated May 13.

"On monday the Trident, of 64 guns, (a French ship, taken from them in the late war) was put into commission, and the command of her given to capt. Murray; and on tuesday the Eagle, of 64 guns, was put in commission, and the command given to capt. Hamar. Several more are expected to be put in commission every day; and many others are getting ready; the artificers in our dock yard still working with unwearied diligence. Admiral Hawke and admiral West, with the ships at Spithead, remain as per last.—An India ship from Bengal, passing by St. Helen's had 32 of her hands pressed. They give an account, that there have been several skirmishes in the East-Indies, in which the English were each time successful, and that the French begin to be very sick.—The late report in London of a difference between two certain admirals, had no foundation; so far was it from truth, that the greatest harmony subsisted, not only between them, but all in general."

London, May 17. "'Tis the prevailing opinion, that admiral Boscawen is still cruising near Brest.

We can upon the best authority affirm, that admiral Boscawen has strength enough to face the French fleet, wherever he can find them.

The truce talked of for two years, and which has given so much molestation to the dissatisfied politicians for some days past, concerns only the two East India companies.

We can assure the public, that a noble peer, as distinguished for his patriotism, as for his superlative abilities, quality or fortune, in a late privy council, communicated a letter which he had received from a person of distinction at Paris, which discovered the plan that court was pursuing to subdue this kingdom; one part of which was, to overpower us at sea. The great consequence this intelligence has been of, probably preserving us from poverty, slavery, and arbitrary power, is a blessing Britain owes to the great E of B.

There is advice from Carthagena, that the 2 Spanish men of war that convoyed the Dutch [illegible] of a courier from Vienna, and the conferences lord Holderness had with the count de Cobentzel, orders have been issued from the war-office to raise recruits with the utmost diligence, to compleat the troops of the Austrian Low-Countries, whose number is provisionally fixed at 20,000, including the 6000 which compose the garison of Luxemburgh.

These letters add, that preparations are making for the subsistence of the troops which are to form a camp in the neighbourhood of Mechlin.

From the Hague they write, that lord Holderness set out last saturday for Hanover; and that the princess-governante has dispatched orders to all the governors and commanders of the towns and forts of the states, as well as to the colonels of divers regiments, not to grant any officer or soldier permission to be absent from their respective corps.

The French king has appointed count d'Argenson to assist as his principal commissary in the general assembly of the clergy, which is to be held this month, and in which we are told some matters of the greatest importance are to be brought on the carpet; for, besides those that relate to the church, the clergy will be called upon to make the king a Free Gift, proportionable to what the present circumstances of the state require; and the comptroller-general of the finances has proposed in council, that this subject be first taken into consideration, as the other affairs may prolong the sitting.

This day 20,000 ounces of silver coin were ship'd for Holland, 12,000 for the Sound, and 32,800 for Petersburgh.

Extract of a Letter from Ballymenagh, April 29.

"In the year of 1746, Clotworthy O'Neil, Esq; raised a company excepting of fifty unmarried men, who are at the date hereof alive and well, and both ready and willing (being compleatly armed and disciplined) to oppose any of his majesty's enemies, who dare to invade this kingdom. About two-thirds of them are married since, and have at this time, 125 sons, all lawfully begotten and in perfect health, besides as many daughters as in a few years will be qualified to raise a regiment of loyal protestants. The company is now commanded by David Philips Esq; and Blasey Adair, Esq; lieutenant.

Edinburgh, April 1. Friday last died, Sir James Home, of Blackader, Bart.

Edinburgh, May 6. His majesty has been pleased to give 2000 l. sterling, (500 l. to be paid yearly for four years) towards carrying on the public buildings in this city.

Kinsale, May 2. One McDonnel has been taken up near Charlestort, for a spy; he pretended to be a fortune teller and to be dumb, but has found the use of his tongue since he has been confined: He was formerly a soldier. It is thought he will be severely punished, and then transported.

Mr Timothy,

The account that is given in your last Gazette, of the disaster which befel the ship Friendship on tuesday the 15th instant, is so partial and incorrect, that to prevent the public from remaining misinformed, and those who are particularly interested in the event from being misled, I am obliged, as master of that ship, to send you the following relation of facts upon oath, which I desire you will publish in your next.

I am, Your humble Servant,

Monday Morning. JOHN RATTRAY.

JOHN RATTRAY, master of the ship Friendship, Gilbert Johnston, chief mate, John Old, boatswain, John Loveridge, second mate, and Christian Rue, carpenter, of the said ship, being duely sworn, did manifest, depose, and declare, That the said ship, having received on board 960 barrels of rice, 20,000 staves, and 300 feet of mahogany plank, at Charles-Town, was tight, staunch, strong, well fitted and provided for merchants service. That Edward Tucker (younger brother of Thomas Tucker) branch-pilot for the bar and harbour of Charles-Town, on monday the 14th instant, conducted and piloted the said ship into Rebellion Road. That about 4 o'clock afternoon of the same day, the said Edward Tucker left the ship, and went to town in a pilot-boat, first having promised and assured the said master, that he would return that night in his own boat, that he would moor his boat astern of the ship, and there sleep, that he might be ready to weigh anchor in the morning, wind and weather permitting. That the said Edward Tucker did not return that night according to his promise, nor did he come on board to take charge of the said ship until 5 o'clock next morning. That between the hours of 5 and 6 in the morning of the 15th instant, he the said Edward Tucker weighed anchor with the said ship, and stood for the bar, the wind then blowing W.S.W. That the ship kept on her way, the wind continuing to blow from that quarter, 'till 10 o'clock, at which time the wind shifted to about S. and S.S.W. That the ship came a breast of No-man's-land, and stood within two cable's length of the inmost buoy. That the pilot finding the ship could not weather the North-breaker head, he ordered her about, and stood to the westward. That about 11 o'clock they tack'd again, and stood to the eastward, the wind then blowing from S.S.W. a moderate breeze, the said buoy bearing S.E. southerly, with a strong flood to leeward. That the said ship, with all sails standing, and going thro' the water at the rate of two knots in an hour, continued her said easterly course until about 12 o'clock, at which time, or a few minutes thereafter, the wind then at about S. and S.S.W. she struck upon a point of the breakers called No-man's-land. That the said ship continuing to strike with violence on the said bank, they got out the stream anchor and cable, in order to heave her off, but could only relieve her a little. That the said ship remained on the ground, striking and swadling, until about half an hour after 1 or rather near 2 o'clock, when a violent thunder-squall came up from N.E. whereupon they filled the fore-top-sail, cut their stream cable, and the ship came off the bank, wrenching the rudder-irons and heaving up the rudder. That a little after 2 o'clock they came to an anchor, with the best bower, in 7 fathom, at which time the said John Rattray, the master, left the ship, in order to procure assistance and enter his protest. And the said Gilbert Johnston, John Loveridge, and Christian Rue, being further sworn, did declare, that about half an hour after 5 o'clock, at the desire of the said Edward Tucker, they weighed anchor with the said ship and stood for Charles Town. That at 6 o'clock they came to an anchor in a quarter less 3 fathom water, where the ship again took the ground upon Cuming's point, and struck violently a bast for about the space of half an hour, and in heaving her off, she struck again, the rudder lifting and heaving as before. And that next day, about noon, they came to an anchor opposite to Mr. Mayne's wharf.

John Rattray,
Gilbert Johnston,
John Old,
John Loveridge,
Christian Rue.

Sworn before me, this 19th July, 1755.
